

Tribune Office, Feb. 24.

1854?

Dear Garrison:

20

Happening in here

this evening, I drop you a line to say that I am disappointed in hearing nothing from Phillips about his lecture.
I have written him twice,
but no answer has come.

Probably he is absent, but as it is possible that my letters miscarried, I write to ask you to look him up and urge him to come as early as Monday evening (land route) at the

Nothing should get almost a place for our Anniversary.
I have applied for Phillips's column, & hope to get it. Hope Phillips is beyond our reach at present, the prospect near Garrison is to provide for the purpose.

latest, and to let me know beforehand when & where to expect him. We were in a state of great anxiety all day last Tuesday, lest the storm should prevent ^{Parker's} ~~the~~ seasonable arrival, & hundreds of persons walked away from the ticket office disappointed because we were compelled to own,
in answer to their questions,
that he had not arrived.
The audience waited half an hour for him, & then he was compelled to go at once from the cars to the platform, without supper & without rest.

It is not safe to depend on coming through by the very last train.

It is probable that Phillips will get my letters and answer them before Monday, but so much depends upon his punctuality, that, to make all sure,
I write you this.

I mailed you a copy of your address in pamphlet form to-day. It looks very well, I think. I altered the title, because, on reflection, it struck me that the one you prefixed, at my suggestion and in haste, was not just the thing. I see you have put the address in the Liberator; it did not occur to me that you would do so; but the discrepancy of title will do no harm.

I failed to get an opportunity for Joseph Baker to see Spiritual Manifestations, chiefly because of his own ~~haste~~ and his wife's indifference. I'm not ^{much} sorry, for he wanted to take Mrs. Rose with him, & she is so determined that mankind shall die like beasts that she always cavils at all she sees. She's as bigoted as any old foggy Calvinist.

Yours, J. J.

Nothing added yet about a place for our Anniversary.
I have applied for Childs' solemn, & hope to get it. Hope Childs